Budding Author Creating Buzz

One of my current Reading Recovery friends spent an entire evening writing and illustrating this adorable Bugs book!! It’s a little reminiscent of the Level 3 Handprints book, Look at Me, written by Ann Staman, where the bat shows a different part of his body and then asks, “What am I?” This one’s a real page turner!

We immediately went around the school showing this masterpiece to every adult we came across. I called it his book tour! So proud and amazed of where these little ones will go with all this new learning!!
